Note: The author, Cyril J. Boyes (1897-1971) was a local poet born in and lived most of his life in Vankoughnet a small village east of Bracebridge where he and his 2 brothers ran the Boyes Brothers Lumber Company. He was a man who possibly could have been a great teacher as he was well read and always seeking new horizons to challenge the intellect. He had the soul of a poet. Many of his poems were lead penciled into scribblers covering many topics and aspects of life. His poems have never been published but have been collected and preserved by his relatives.

1. Penmanship - Write (not print) the following paragraph:

The Graceful White Pine

Graceful and tall the white pine's standing
In beauty unsurpassed
Oh while I may I will behold you
This look may be the last.

Oh dear old landmarks you are going
From those who love you best
Going yes as went the buffalo
From the plainlands of the west.

We'll miss you pine when you have left us
There's none can take your place
'T would seem you'll soon be but a memory
Of a vanished fallen race.
